

NITROGEN CYCLE KNOWLEDGE

DIRECTIONS

All living things need carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen. Plants and animals need nitrogen, but they can't use the nitrogen that is in the air--it has to be "fixed" or changed a little first. This is where the plants, including peanut plants, come in handy! Starting with the yellow dot representing nitrogen in the air, draw arrows connecting the objects below to complete the nitrogen cycle.

